

FITCH TAKES RATING ACTIONS ON VALENCIA HIPOTECARIO

Fitch Ratings-London-31 July 2014: Fitch Ratings has upgraded four, affirmed seven and downgraded one tranche of the Valencia Hipotecario series, four Spanish RMBS transactions originated by Banco de Valencia (now CaixaBank; BBB/Positive/F2). A full list of rating actions is at the end of this commentary.

KEY RATING DRIVERS

Sufficient Credit Enhancement

Fitch placed the class A notes of VH1 on RWP in April 2014, following the revision of Spain's Country Ceiling to 'AA+', six notches above the sovereign Issuer Default Rating (IDR) of 'BBB+.

The agency has tested the transaction's ability to withstand higher rating stresses under the updated criteria assumptions for Spanish RMBS. The analysis has shown that the credit enhancement available to the notes, as well as that available to the class A notes of VH2 are sufficient to withstand a 'AA+sf' rating.

Divergent Asset Performance

Over the past 12 months the asset performance of Valencia Hipotecario 1, 2 and 3, the more seasoned transactions, was broadly stable. Cumulative gross defaults have remained limited and presently stand between 0.3% (VH1) and 2.5% (VH2 and VH3) of the initial pool, an increase of between 10bp (VH1) and 50bp (VH2 and VH3) compared with 12 months ago. Late stage arrears (mortgages with at least three months payments overdue) remained constant, between 0.8% (VH1) and 1.9% (VH2) of the current pool. These measures are currently below Fitch's Spanish RMBS index, where gross defaults and late stage arrears are 4.6% and 2.1%, respectively

Fitch believes that the better performance of these three transactions can be attributed to the high average seasoning (between 113 months (VH3) and 155 months (VH1)), and low loan-to-value (LTV) ratios of the underlying mortgages (between 33% (VH1) and 47% (VH3)). Combined with the strong levels of available credit enhancement, this good asset performance has led to the upgrade of the class A and C notes of VH1 and class A and B notes of VH2, as well as the affirmations across the rest of their structures, with Stable Outlooks.

In contrast, VH5's portfolio performance is weaker, with cumulative gross defaults at 5.8% of the initial pool. Late stage arrears are significantly higher than those reported for the three more seasoned transactions, at 3.7% of the current pool. Fitch considers the performance to be driven by the more adverse portfolio characteristics, as the underlying pool at closing included 10.5% and 14% of self-employed and foreign borrowers, respectively, in addition to 16.6% of broker-originated mortgages. The agency also notes a large part of mortgages in early stage arrears have left the pool over the past 12 months, which may have somewhat improved the performance of the portfolio. For these reasons, the performance is expected to remain volatile.

Reserve Fund Draws

The cash reserves of VH1, VH2 and VH3 stand between 99.2% (VH1) and 71.3% (VH3) of the respective target levels. The draws have been caused by provisions on defaulted loans. While the pipeline of future defaults remains limited, Fitch believes that their replenishment on the upcoming payment dates is likely. As the reversal of the reserve fund draws on VH3 is expected to take longer, the Outlook on its class C notes remains Negative.

In VH5 the combination of high defaults and limited excess spread generated from the underlying mortgages has implied more severe reserve draws to the point that the cash reserve is now at 55.5% of the target balance. Fitch expects this pattern to continue in the next payment dates, thus impacting the credit enhancement available to the class A notes, and leading to their downgrade to 'BBBsf'

Strong House Price Decline

Fitch has observed that the properties in the underlying portfolios, strongly concentrated in the Valencia area, have seen severe price declines over the past years, resulting in limited recoveries from the sale of properties taken into possession. This factor and the weak asset performance contributed to the downgrade of the senior tranche in VH5.

RATING SENSITIVITIES

A revision of the structured finance 'AA+sf' rating cap for Spain could result in rating changes to the 'AA+sf'-rated tranches.

A deterioration of the asset performance beyond Fitch's expectations would trigger negative rating actions.
