FITCH UPGRADES 2 TRANCHES FROM RURAL HIPOTECARIO DEALS; REVISES OUTLOOKS

Fitch Ratings-London-24 June 2009: Fitch Ratings has today upgraded two and affirmed 22 tranches of Rural Hipotecario series Spanish RMBS transactions.

The rating actions reflect strong credit enhancement levels within these transactions and the overall steady performance of the underlying collateral portfolios. Especially for older vintage transactions within the series where the upgrades have taken place, arrears levels as volume and as a percentage of the current outstanding collateral have stabilised. However, for recent vintage transactions, such as the Rural Hipotecario VIII, IX and Global I deals, a continuous increase in arrears levels has been observed. This increase is expected to cause loans in arrears to move towards higher arrears buckets and become defaulted once they reach 18 months plus in arrears. At this point, these loans will be provisioned by the transaction and absorbed by available excess spread.

All transactions within the series feature an amortising reserve fund; however, due to the current arrears levels the reserve funds are not expected to amortise over the next six quarters, providing an additional support for junior notes against possible losses. It should be noted that these transaction have reported significantly low levels of defaults to date in comparison to other transactions within the Spanish RMBS market. However, given the current economic climate - with house price declines, rising unemployment and limited refinancing opportunities - defaults are expected to trend upwards. Although older vintage transaction have experienced a strong build up of credit enhancement to cope with higher defaults, support provided by the credit enhancement levels for more recent vintage transactions are highly dependent on the performance of their respective collateral portfolios.
