BBVA Consumo 10 Fondo de Titulizacion Spanish Consumer ABS Notes Ratings Affirmed

June 22, 2023

Overview

- We have reviewed the performance of BBVA Consumo 10 Fondo De Titulizacion by conducting our credit and cash flow analysis and applying our relevant criteria.
- Following our review, we affirmed our ratings on all classes of notes.
- BBVA Consumo 10 is a Spanish ABS transaction that securitizes a portfolio of consumer loans originated by BBVA.

MADRID (S&P Global Ratings) June 22, 2023--S&P Global Ratings today affirmed its 'AA (sf)', 'A-(sf)', and 'B (sf)' credit ratings on BBVA Consumo 10 Fondo De Titulizacion's class A, B, and C notes, respectively.

Our ratings address timely payment of interest and principal for all notes.

Today's affirmations follow our review of the transaction's performance and the application of our current criteria. They also reflect our assessment of the payment structure according to the transaction documents (see "Related Criteria").

We analyzed the transaction's credit risk under our updated global consumer ABS criteria. In our view, BBVA Consumo 10's cumulative gross losses have been higher than our assumptions at our previous review (see "BBVA Consumo 10 Fondo de Titulizacion Spanish Consumer ABS Notes Ratings Affirmed," published on June 30, 2022). As a result, we increased our base-case gross loss assumption to 4.95% from 4.00% in our previous review. We have applied multiples of 5x at the 'AAA' rating level, similar to in our previous review.

The transaction is amortizing sequentially since March 2021. Credit enhancement is provided through subordination, excess spread, and cash reserve. The reserve fund is amortizing and is at its required level of €3.73 million, as of the investor report in March 2023. The cash reserve is part of the available cash and is used to cover any shortfalls in the senior fees. It flows down the combined waterfall once the class A, B, and C notes are fully paid down. As of the March 2023 servicer report, the pool factor is currently at 42.54%, and the available credit enhancement for the class A, B, C, D notes has increased to 24.35%, 17.06%, 6.75%, and 2.98%, respectively. We only rate the class A to C notes in this transaction.

We have applied a recovery rate of 15% with a 45% haircut at the 'AAA' rating level in our cash flow analysis, in line with our previous review. This equates to a 8.25% stressed recovery rate. We have maintained the recovery lag of 12 months, which is unchanged since closing.

Table 1

Credit Assumption Summary ('AAA')

	Current review	2022 review
Base-case cumulative rate assumption (%)	4.95	4.00
Remaining losses applied in our analysis (%)	7.74%	4.74
Stress multiple (x)	5	5
Stressed cumulative recovery (%)*	8.25	8.25
Stressed net loss (%)	35.5	21.7

*100% of recoveries are realized 12 months after default.

Our cash flow analysis indicates that the available credit enhancement for the class A, B, and C notes in this transaction is sufficient to withstand the credit and cash flow stresses that we apply at the 'AA', 'A-', and 'B' rating levels, respectively. We therefore affirmed our 'AA (sf)', 'A- (sf)', and 'B (sf)' credit ratings on the class A, B, and C notes, respectively.

As part of our analysis we also conducted additional sensitivity analysis to assess the effect of, all else being equal, an increased gross default base case and a haircut to the recovery rate base case. For this purpose, we ran eight sensitivity runs by either increasing stressed defaults and/or reducing expected recoveries as below.

Table 2

Sensitivity analysis assumptions

Gross default rate base case (%)	Recovery rate base case (%)
	0	(10)	(30)
0	Base case	Scenario 3	Scenario 4
10	Scenario 1	Scenario 5	Scenario 7
30	Scenario 2	Scenario 6	Scenario 8

Class C	B	NR	NR	B	B	NR	NR	NR	NR

NR--Not rated.

Operational, counterparty, and legal risks continue to be adequately mitigated, in our view, and do not constrain our ratings on the notes.
